STILLWATER, Oklas, Nov. 17 .-Now that the Aggles have redeemed varsity eleven should be victoriou their defeat at the hands of Baylor by Priday. winning over the stronger To-Christian university team 13 to 9 Fort Worth Tuesday, prospects look better for a victory over the Haskell Indians at Lawrence, Kan., Friday, However, the erratic playing of the Oklaliona farmer cleven this season makes any game, whether hard or easy, appear uncertain.

It is apparent from present reports

It is apparent from present reports that Griffith's warriors came back in their second Texas game with rejuvenated spirit and by simple fighting swamped the Christians. Stillwater was surprised to learn that the Agaic mentor instructed his men to use the straight football tactics against T. C. U. when the open style game was expected. However, this change .1 mode of attack is probably explained by the fart that many of the alternates of the Aggie squad were in the lineup Tuesday, and further, that the line smashing plays appeared to be much more effective than the aerial work.

They Loaf Too Much.

Going on the assumption that the Aggies have been winning their hard games and losing the easy ones as they appeared this season, A. & M. shou'd at least nose out the Indians in the last game before they meet the

The Haskell game has been considered all the season as one of the hardest games to be played, and for that reason Griffith's men should scrap furiously. The only comparative dope on the strength of Haskell and the Argies is by means of the games these two teams have played with Baker university. A few days before the Argies walloped Baker at Stillwater 30 to 7, the Indians heat Haker only 6 to 0 at Lawrence, which would give the Argies advantage by way of the dope trail. The Argie-Baker game, however, stands out prominently as the one game of the year wherein the Argies fought with surprising energy, never stopping from the first whistle to the final, which fact doubtless not counts for the 20 to 7 score.

By taking a big squad of players on the Texas trip and using them in both Texas games, it is expected that Grif-fith will send in his strongest lineup against the Redskins, and this is another argument why the Aggle sup-porters feel that the Orange and Blac
